INDIAN HEAD.

—Settlers are coming in. Seven settlers with eight cars of effects have dropped off at this point.

—Mr. Baker, of Pleasant Plains, arrived on Monday from the east with a carload of farm stock.

—On Tuesday Mr. C. H. Bonestell arrived from the east with a carload of farm stock and settlers' effects.

—Major Bell has purchased ten Superior prize feeder drags through Mr. Jos. Glenn, Massey's agent here.

—Mr. Geo. Thompson, who went east as immigrant agent, is expected back in a few days with good reports.

—Carpenters are at work on the big brick hotel preparing it for the Ramsey Co's men, who are expected to arrive shortly.

—Mr. Hunt, brother of Dr. Hunt, arrived on Tuesday with a carload of settlers' effects, and is settling four miles out of town.

—Messrs. Bone and Miller have arrived with a carload of stock, comprising principally of thorough bred Southdown sheep.
They also brought a fine Shetland pony.

—O. P. R. Agent Lewis has been notified that in about a fortnight will arrive three carloads of thorough bred Friesian Angus, Herefords and Jerseys, which will be sold cheap.

—It is said that a creamery or cheese factory, or both, will be started on the Experimental Farm this summer. Some thorough bred stock is expected to arrive for the farm shortly.

—On Friday evening last a Division of the Sons of Temperance was organized here.
The first meeting was held in the Presbyterian church. Regular meetings will be held in the town hall.

—Mr. J. Glenn went up to Moose Jaw on Wednesday to bring down the thorough bred blood station Crown Star. Messrs. Glenn and Graham will start out on May 1st over the same route as last year with the stallions McGregor Boy and Crown Star.

BROADVIEW.

—April has come and yet spring doesn't spring into a cent.

—Measles have made their appearance among us, how many, no one can tell.

—Last week was stormy all over this locality and the thermometer made some low dips.

—The Rev. J. Fotheringham preached here last Sabbath for the Rev. Wm. Nichol, who was wired for to preach at Minnedosa.

—Mr. Bevin, of the C. P. R. repair shops here, leaves for Winnipeg shortly. We will soon have no one left. No less than eight families are on the move. I trust more and better ones will soon take their place.

—Sergeant Cochrane has gone to Moom-min to take the place of the Rev. Wm. Nichol, who is invited. We have a magnificent fellow in place of Cochrane. I believe his name is Sergeant-Major Spicer. How appropriate!

MCLEAN.

—Miss Tait opened school on Tuesday.

—There was a party at Mr. G. Cole's on Monday to celebrate his birthday. Messrs.
Manning and Evans furnished entertaining music.

—Feed for the cattle has been very scarce but now since the snow is disappearing they will find their own living, preferring the old grass on the prairie to cured hay.

A TRIP TO MANITOBA.

Last week I went to Manitoba on the C.
P. R. At the Portage I got sick, and at Winnipeg I was so weak that I had to be assisted out of the train. I got a bottle of Borden's better. When I got to Winnipeg I was as well as ever. The Bitters gave me the best effects of the sulphur water of the prairies.

HERCHMER AND OTTER.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Globe has this to say of a rumor current at the capital:

"Your correspondent has reason to believe that Sir John Macdonald has about decided to transfer Mr. Herchmer, commissioner of mounted police, to some other position and offer the command to Col. Otter, of Toronto.

It was foolish to think of dealing with the matter that the Premier asked Mr. Davin in the House ten days ago to allow the nation for a commission of inquiry to stand.

Mr. Davin, the member for the district in which the commissioner's headquarters are situated, and who is pressing for an investigation into charges he makes against Mr.
Herchmer, was soon to-day in reference to the matter and at once said that he thought Col. Otter a very suitable man and it was in his favor that he had had an experience in the Northwest. The position called for an exceptionally able man. Whatever may be the results of his deliberations, whether these and are apparent success or apparent failure, the summoning of the Commission by the honorable Emperor of Germany, and the acceptance of his invitation by the other nations, mark an epoch in the development of the international element as a distinct political force. This force has now become so formidable that it must be reckoned with in all national arrangements.

The questions to be specially considered relate to the regulation of labor in the mines, labor on Sundays, and labor as performed by women and children. It is the fashion just now to sneer at the idea that the abuses connected with each of these phases of industrial life in any degree be corrected by international action. That there are very serious difficulties in the way of concerted and uniform action is obvious. The broad differences in national circumstances, custom, temperament, and so forth, make it very unlikely and perhaps undesirable that any great degree of uniformity can be obtained. Be-that as it may, it is pretty safe to say that nothing but good can come from the study and comparison that the international conferences of such questions must bring about.

It is a small matter to have the thoughts of some of the best minds in the public life of each of the great nations seriously directed for a time to the investigation of such questions. The practical admission that they are questions in regard to which the interests of the different nations represented are in harmony, and not in conflict, is in itself no small matter. Much, of course, almost everything, depends upon the manner and spirit in which the delegates go about their deliberations. If the aim is simply to throw a sepe to the Socialistic Conference, to agree upon the minimum of concession to the demands of labor which can be relied on to checkmate the labor agitators; if the inquiry and discussion are restricted within strictly official bounds, to the exclusion of the opinions and wishes of those who alone have practical knowledge of the views and feelings of the classes affected, there can be little hope of any very beneficial result.

The labor representatives and agitators will be likely to look askance at the proposals that may be formulated, and go on with their own movement in their own way. If, on the other hand, the delegates take consideration with the real representatives of the cases whose interest is under consideration, and freely recognize their right to a vote, and a very influential voice, in any proposed legislation, there is no forgetting what national benefits may be the outcome of the movement. The origin and constitution of the Conference do not, we confess, afford much ground for hoping for the best. The holding of the Conference with closed doors and under obligations to secrecy makes, too, an unpleasant beginning. But we shall soon see—The Week.

EDMONTON.

From The Bulletin.

—Messrs. Geo. Bourke and C.
Caron are drifting mining on the Saskatchewan near Fort Saskatchewan.

They run a tunnel into the bank and wash the pay dirt in the tunnel as they get it in extending the tunnel. They make from a dollar a day upwards. The pay is small, but to industrious men a small profit is better than a large loss, which would occur did they idle all winter.

—A private letter from Whitefish lake, recently received, says there have been four deaths from influenza amongst the Indians of the reserve, but all have not yet recovered and there may be more deaths yet. During the sickness the Indians killed 19 head of cattle of their own to provide themselves with beef, as they could not eat the rations of bacon, the only kind of meat then issued by the Indian department. Fourteen sleigh loads of provisions furnished by the department had just arrived from Saddle lake.

—Notwithstanding the national solemnity and the fondness of the Deputies for embassies, raising and overturning Ministers, the Republic of France seems to be, on the whole, progressing in the direction of stability.

With the downfall of Boulanger there is some reason to hope that the country has entered upon a new era of internal peace and progression. The unexpected length of time during which the late weak Government was able to hold the reins, and the comparative quietness with which the transfer of power is being made to a new and probably stronger Ministry under M. de Freycinet, seem to argue that constitutional methods are becoming better understood and more firmly rooted among the people. Outside chambers will wait with some anxiety to see what course the new Cabinet will adopt with reference to the international Council now sitting in Berlin. It would be a cause of regret, and possibly of danger, should the new and conservative spirit of the late Cabinet in respecting Emperor William's invitation to the Conference be reversed, especially should the delegates be unceremoniously withdrawn.

It is to be hoped that better counsels will prevail, and that both Government and people may be able to see the wisdom of holding to lose, even of national dignity, in taking part in a Conference which ostensibly seeks to promote the well-being of the working classes in both countries, and which may have something to gain from a relaxation of the severity of international industrial competition, and the improvement of the condition of the laboring classes, which such relaxation would render possible.—The Week.

ONE LITTLE PIGGIE.

I owned a litter of piggies. They thrived well until a month old, when their throats swelled, and spite of all remedies they all died except one, which was nearly dead.

Laughingly I said I would try Yellow Oil, and gave it a thorough application. It improved at once, and soon was all right.

WOMEN WHO WRITE.

Miss Grace Elery Channing, granddaughter of William Elery Channing, is known in California as a clever writer.

Anna Katherine Green, the so called American Dostoevsky, has been writing tales and novels since she was 11 years old.

The Marchioness of Hafford contemplates publishing a volume of travels around the world made in company with her husband.

Miss Frith, a daughter of the popular English artist, writes for one of our American papers under the pseudonym Walter Fowell.

Oliver Schreiner, whose phenomenal success has developed from a plain, shy, retiring girl into a brilliant, self-poised woman, with many pretensions to beauty.

George Truman Korcheval, who wrote a successful book called "Lerin Mooruck and Other Indian Stories," is said to be a young lady named Winifred Jennings.

E. Nisbet, whose beautiful and passionate romance have attracted so much attention, is tall, slender, and her dark flowing hair makes her look like the pictures of the Italian angels.

Mary Gordon Duffie, the authoress, now nearly 50 years old, lives with her aged mother in a rural frame cottage, perched on the very summit of a picturesque mountain near Mount Springs, Ariz.

Miss Katherine Tynan, the Irish poetess, whose work is familiar to American readers, is described as a blonde of medium height, with a few golden curls and a pair of eyes of a deep, clear blue.

FRIDAY, APRIL 4, 1890.

AN ISSUE.

The Bill introduced in the Senate on the part of the Dominion Government to amend the Act respecting the Northwest Territories, contains the following section:

"No change shall be made by the Legislative Assembly in the existing law as to intoxicating liquors in the Northwest Territories, nor shall any such legislation be provided in this Act in relation to the granting of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, or to the importation, manufacture, possession, transfer, sale or disposal thereof, be passed, until the dissolution of the present Legislative Assembly has afforded the inhabitants of the Northwest Territories an opportunity to express their opinion as to the nature of the legislation on this subject which shall thereafter have effect."

As the above clause is the only one referring to the liquor question, it is highly unsatisfactory to the people of the Northwest, who have expressed their wish on this question in a most decided manner. They elected a majority of legislators on the distinct understanding that a direct vote should be taken on this question. The Legislative Assembly took steps to carry out the wish of the people but were blocked by an opinion of the legal experts who said the Assembly could not take such a vote. Then an appeal was made to Ottawa, to extend their powers so as to enable them to take a plebiscite on the question of Prohibition vs. license. How has this been received? Ask for bread and we get a stone. The question is to be made an issue at the polls so this Bill virtually says: But what of all the other questions that have and will come up. What about responsible government, party politics, sectional and other questions that will arise? It is perfectly absurd to suppose that a correct expression of opinion on any one question can be obtained at the next election. Besides, the clause above quoted does not make it clear that the Assembly will have any power to deal with the question, even if they should be elected on that issue. Further developments are awaited, as no doubt the question will be discussed when the Bill comes up in the Commons.

DEWDNEY AND DAVIN.

It will be remembered that when the death of the late Hon. Thos. White made it necessary to appoint a new Minister of the Interior, that Mr. Nicholas Flood Davin, M. P. for western Assiniboia, appeared to the position, and was deeply wounded in pride and disappointed that he did not get it. Still he dared not openly oppose Hon. Mr. Dewdney's appointment, but made fierce attacks on subordinate officials in the Indian Department at Regina. During the session of Parliament now being held at Ottawa, there have been jars between Mr. Davin and Mr. Dewdney, or rather we should say attempts on the part of Mr. Davin to seek occasion for faultfinding with Mr. Dewdney. In this Mr. Davin has met with poor success. A short time ago the Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Globe stated there was a disagreement between the Manitoba and Northwest members and the Minister of the Interior. We have been reliably informed that there is not a word of truth in the statement. We are of the opinion, though our informant has not even hinted it, that the report could be traced to Mr. Davin, if deemed worth the trouble. We are pleased to be able to state that outside of Mr. Davin the Manitoba and Northwest members have full confidence in Mr. Dewdney. We are reliably informed, in fact it is common talk at the Capital, that the member for West Assiniboia has been during the present session frequently incapacitated for the discharge of his duties as a member of the House of Commons. It may therefore be inferred that during such times Mr. Davin has given vent to his jealousy of Mr. Dewdney, which circumstances compel him to curb when sober. It is painful to have to refer to such a matter, but in the public interest we deem it necessary to refer to what would otherwise be a private matter, in order that a public cabinet minister's efforts to serve the country may not be hindered by attacks such as appeared to have been made a few days ago by a man who, from the very nature and substance of the attack, showed plainly to those who know him that he was at the time non compos mentis.

CANADA'S NEW PARTY.

The annual convention of Canada's New Party met in Toronto on the 20th inst. There was a representative gathering of delegates, and much enthusiasm was displayed. The President, Rev. Dr. Sutherland, ably presided at all the meetings.

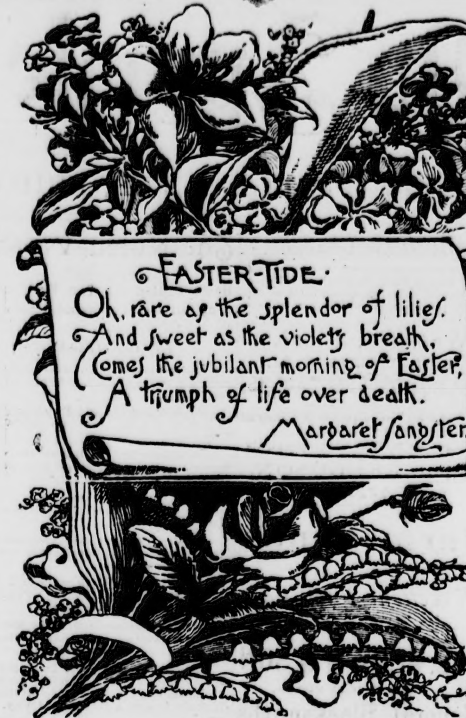

The President delivered a short address on the progress of the work. As the first convention, not over fifty members had been present, but the membership numbers over 4,000. Reports of the progress of the work in various quarters were also given by Mr. John B. Macdonald, Mr. J. P. Fairs, Rev. Dr. V. G. Macdonald, Mr. J. P. Fairs, F. A. Chapman, W. H. Wyle, W. Ward, Rev. T. H. O'Connell.

In the afternoon the various committees of the party reported on the resolutions which were passed by the Council of One Hundred at Wednesday's meeting. All the reports were adopted. On behalf of the Organization Committee Mr. J. S. Robertson moved: "That the results thus far accomplished in the organization of Canada's new party indicate very clearly the existence of a large unorganized vote, and the need of a large and effective movement to support a movement on the lines of right and truth, the prohibition of the liquor traffic, equal rights for all, and the only way to accomplish this is by public discussion and the wide diffusion of literature bearing upon the great questions of the day, we cordially endorse the effort of the Dominion Government to organize a campaign literature fund of not less than ten thousand dollars, to be used for the following purposes:

1. To print and circulate literature bearing upon the principles of the new party, promising no being given to Prohibition, equal rights, and other questions of today.
2. To send the Canadian Nation free copies of the new party literature, and to make it possible for those who are not identified with the new party.
3. To pay the travelling expenses of speakers who go to address meetings in localities where the new party is not yet organized.

We further recommended that in every place where the new party has been organized, a committee be appointed to solicit subscriptions for the purpose indicated, and that returns be made to the secretary-treasurer as promptly as possible, or such other methods as may be thought best.

Mr. Rivett of the Platform Committee, moved: "That in the opinion of the convention every postscript party appealing to the public mind should be based on a platform of united action and a clear and satisfactory statement of the general principles and policy of our party. We therefore re-affirm the platform of 1888, and cordially invite all to unity in leadership on that basis. At the same time we reiterate and repeat the right of private judgment and individual conscience, and we desire to see no one who is in accord with us on the main principles of the platform." This resolution was carried by a large majority. The resolution was carried by a large majority. The resolution was carried by a large majority.

“EASTER-TIDE.”
O, rare as the splendor of lilies,
And sweet as the violet's breath,
Come the jubilant morning of Easter,
A triumph of life over death.

Margaret Angier

A report advocating the removal of all disabilities from labor and the products of labor, but as this gave rise to considerable discussion the whole matter was referred to the Executive Committee without instructions. Prof. Austin then moved, on behalf of the Conservatives, that the resolutions be referred to the representatives in the House show that, as parties, they are opposed to the measure, so cannot regard either party as entitled to the confidence of the friends of temperance and prohibition. And inasmuch as every candidate is expected to support the policy of the party by which he is nominated, we do not think it advisable to expect candidates who come out in the interest of either of the two parties. We therefore recommend that in every constituency, where practically a candidate be nominated in the interest of the New Party, and that on the part of the Dominion Government, without delay. While recognizing the fact that the prohibition of the liquor traffic can be accomplished only by Dominion legislation, yet as the enforcement of such a measure will rest chiefly with the provincial authorities, we feel it to be highly important to have in each province a Legislative and a Government in sympathy with prohibition. We therefore recommend the Dominion Government to take the necessary steps to secure the enactment of such a measure, so that in the event of a prohibitory law being secured, there may be no doubt in regard to its enforcement.

The resolution of the Committee on Miscellaneous Matters, Rev. A. Moore moved: "That while we regard the prohibition of the liquor traffic as of paramount importance to the welfare of the Dominion at the present time, we do not underestimate the importance of other questions that await solution. Especially do we recognize the importance of a universal franchise, and the principle of equal rights for all races, classes, and religions, with as inevitable corollary of extensive privileges to women. We profoundly approve the course pursued by both parties in the Dominion Parliament on this question, as shown by the speeches and votes in connection with the recent Estates and Dual Citizenship debates, and would express our sympathy with those members of the House who, in the face of overwhelming opposition, maintained the principles of equal rights as well as equal justice and clerical domination. As a consequence of the principle of equal rights for all races, classes, and religions, we are convinced that the Dominion Government is called upon to support the same principles, and earnestly wish them success in their patriotic efforts."

A resolution expressing satisfaction with the Canadian Nation, the sign of the new party, was passed. The Executive Committee was asked to deliberate on the letter sent to Mr. Dewdney, in which he requested his position as president of the Executive, and as the reasons he offered were considered satisfactory, his resignation was accepted, and it was recommended that a special letter be sent to him, expressing our regret that he was not able to attend the convention.

In the interval between the closing of the reports of members spoken on the general features of our work, and before the address was delivered by Mr. Dr. O'Connell of Kansas City.

WHAT CAN BE DONE.

From the Western World, Winnipeg.

The Western World intends to show from time to time the resources of the great Canadian Northwest, and the rapid development of its vast lands in the rapid development of these resources within a short period. A considerable time has been spent in the outside world and only five years since the opening of the Canadian Pacific Railway on a grand scale made the country west of Lake Superior a part of the great development of the Canadian Northwest has been very wonderful. This development has certainly not been checked by the war, but has been going on steadily for the last few years. The year 1887 was one calculated to give settlers and visitors of a doubtful turn of mind a revelation of the wonderful power of the climate and soil of the new Northwest. It was not uncommon in the winter following that fruitful year to see big piles of grain in bags lying for weeks on railroad platforms, and even on the streets of one half the towns of Manitoba, simply because the whole available means of transport were not sufficient to immediately carry out the great crop of wheat harvested in the previous season. Old residents say that in the years immediately preceding the great rush of the "boom" years of 1882-3 such crops were the regular rule, that the seasons here are elsewhere in the world, run in cycles, and that according to the previous experience the Northwest is now on the eve of a period of abundance. The past season was a very dry one. The previous fall had been equally dry and the winter exceptionally mild and the winter very limited snow, so that the seed of 1889 was not in so dry a soil, a correspondingly dry summer following, that in many cases the yield was disappointing. But even these poor yields have not been attributed by any one to want of fertility in the soil, as the most capable farmers of the country assert and have fully proved in their own experience that more thorough cultivation, more careful selection of their methods of cultivation to the peculiarities of the season would have enabled them to a great degree to master the difficulties of the conditions. Last year, with the paying crops, with even the limited amount of rainfall which took place in the last crop year, the very driest ever known to settlers here.

The minimum yield of a new country is always a safe criterion by which to estimate its farming possibilities, and it is safe to say that the last year was just such a season. Notwithstanding this fact there are farmers all over the country, and in some districts a great many of them, who can truthfully report average yields running all the way from 15 to 25 and in some cases up to 30 bushels per acre for their wheat, wheat and corn, running from 50 to 200 acres each. And plenty of these men say with confidence that with the suggestions derived from the experience last year, with the suitable methods of cultivation, already put to the test and found satisfactory, they could handle their land as to ensure a paying crop in the worst possible season. But whether here to be engaged in farming or any other line of business, no man of ordinary sound judgment makes his poor prospect estimates either from a year of good results or of crop failures, losses and disappointments. He takes the average of a number of years, the best with the worst, and to the best of his ability, seeks to forecast both the coming year and the year after, and he does so with that average, and decides accordingly. True, by this common sense view of the case the future merits of the Canadian Northwest as a large country are beyond question, and will bear any amount of fair investigation. It is not contended, no prudent man would seek to contend, that the future of the Northwest will be again be drawbacks and disadvantages here as elsewhere in every line of business, farming not excepted, but it can be truthfully said that the Northwest is a country, where the farmer, the settler, the homestead farmer, the small farmer, the large farmer, the man who came out to get hold of land as a means to lucky speculation, but to make a home for himself and family, and by steady and persevering industry laid out the time from his own fortune and the prosperity of the country, is the only proper criterion to which a careful observer can look for light on his own chance here, and the only way to the success of the part of farmers, who can be found everywhere, that the Western World would point the new corner for light and leading.

One who gives an opinion on detail on another page of this issue. Mr. Alexander Nichol, a capable and experienced farmer, now living in the immediate vicinity of Brandon in 1882, and on the time from his own fortune and the prosperity of the country, is the only proper criterion to which a careful observer can look for light on his own chance here, and the only way to the success of the part of farmers, who can be found everywhere, that the Western World would point the new corner for light and leading.

WOMAN'S WEAR.

The Connoisseur is the favorite autumn wrap for misses and little girls.

All the softer, refined silk fabrics are now classed under the general head of longline.

Several new and pretty shades of lilac and violet cashmere are shown for house dresses. The new small coats show the necessary contrast to the dress skirt. They are never set high in the back.

The latest skirt in hair dressing is to use at least six double, pointed pins of as many distinct directions.

Mahogany silk, trimmed with copper-colored flowers, are striped with wide bands of mahogany velvet.

Armure, facile française and brocade appear among the early importations of silks for the coming season.

The extreme simplicity of style modeled on the directors pattern will be popular during the coming fall season.

Black and white just now is the combination most desirable to make and worn by matron and maid alike.

Continued. The name used to describe a list of red shades, which range from a brilliant poppy hue to a dark, dull tint.

Many lovely flecks and decorations for the front and necks of gowns are seen in lace. Patterned designs are most fashionable.

A stylish Hungarian cloak, reaching from the neck to the knees, is made of long line, and lined with black and white checked silk.

Furriers say that beaver is to be one of the very fashionable furs next winter. It is a becoming, and very desirable as a trimming for gowns and cloaks.

Russian models in cloaks are very elegant and will prove favorites, as all the Russian models, for they always possess the effect of grace and simplicity. Very few, if any, of the newer designs in bouffant or hula have any decided novelty in shape. The trimmings alone give an autumn character to the new hotel gear.

Pretty soft crepe de chine vests, with a jacket of plating down the front, are just now quite a la mode to wear with black costumes. They may be found ready made in all colors.

Drop trimmings of all kinds will be worn on wraps and vestings of a graceful finish. Some of the new models have metal threads interwoven in the silk, giving a rich and pretty effect.

Among the charming models for a young girl's outfit is one of tulle silk in a young white over which is a very delicate shade of Swiss muslin, on which are tiny rose buds in pink. A simple look of black velvet keeps the full waist in place and hangs in long bows and ends at the side.

ROYAL FLUSHES.

It is stated that King Leopold of Belgium contemplates a trip to the Congo.

The two young daughters of the Prince of Wales are contributing to the war effort.

The emperor of China, a great naturalist, is believed for making a fine prediction.

The shrewd Crown Prince, Stephen, is about to receive the golden rose this year from the pope.

The two favorite parrots of Prince Bismarck are rising and are now in the form of dust.

The wedding trousseau of the emperor of China filled 600 boxes, each of which took two men to carry. The emperor's two other wives were able to pack their apparel into 200 boxes.

No. 727.—Charade.

My first is not oval, my first is not square.

My first can never oblige.

My second is something we can't do without.

Though often it looks as wrong.

My whole an upholder of freedom was reckoned.

And lived in the days of Charles Stuart the second.

No. 728.—An Enigma.

I am a word of four letters. Within me find: A place of entertainment for man and for beast; a pronoun, a preposition, an abbreivation for "not at," and a German word meaning "one." When you have found me, you will have a number which no person now living will probably ever again be able to omit from the date of any document.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Mayor Grant takes a horseback ride every morning before 8 o'clock.

The Comte de Paris will spend the remainder of his days in England.

Thomas A. Edison, the Italian count, now claims that his favorite author is Dante.

Amos Stagg, the famous Yale athlete, will enter the church soon. He is said to be a good speaker.

Stanley's expedition has cost $100,000 thus far, and additional expenses will bring the total up to $150,000.

Cardinal Haynald, of Hungary, the famous botanist, has suddenly lost the faculty of reading and writing.

By his latest portrait of Gladstone paid for by subscription of the women of Eng-land, Milnes received the sum of $25,000.

Cardinal Bonaparte is one of the oldest members of the Sacred College. He is the son of Lucien Bonaparte, brother of Napoleon I, and is 75 years of age.

The sole survivor of the battle of Trafalgar is believed to be Emmanuel Louis Cartigny, who is living at Hyeres. He was a cabin boy on the French ship Redoubtable.

Coningsby Dornell, nephew and heir of Lord Rossmore, shares his quarters at Ox-ford with a number of Gladstone's family, who is his most intimate friend and enemy.

Messieurs, since his recent marriage, has seemed to lay his ambition. He spends very few hours a day in his study, and does a great deal of aimless scribbling and doodling.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt is asserted by the London newspapers to have purchased from the young Earl of Dunfermline's master-piece, "The Grand Canal, Venice," for the sum of $60,000.

Watts, the artist, and husband of Ellen Terry, has decided to give his paintings, about fifty in number, and including portraits of some of the most celebrated men of the time, to the British gallery.

Spencer Reed has made a collection of news-paper pictures of himself, and on his desk is a large pile of these cuts. He takes great pleas-ure in showing his friends how many differ-ent faces he turns to the public.

Emile Zola is anxious to visit his country. He has not the usual French prejudice against other lands, and it is said he has read a good deal of American literature. He is especially fond of Bret Harte's work.

Lord Salisbury is not a great newspaper reader. He reads the papers which he peruses regularly are The London Times and Stand-ard. He never looks at The Saturday Review, for which periodical he used to write.

At North Lancing, Hampshire county, N. Y., lives the oldest resident in the United States in the point of service. His name is Boswell Boardley, and for sixty-four years, he has distributed mail to his neighbors. He has held his office under thirteen consecutive presidents.

No. 740.—Anagram.

The horse I bought looked very nice.

And seemed a good one for the price.

But when I found he balked and shied,

And was not safe to drive or ride,

That he was spoiled and springy halt,

And of evil habit and the fault,

That he would kick and run away,

And never would the rein obey,

That worse than all, he was stone blind—

Without good will, I spoke my mind,

And told the man who sold the brute

He was a fraud and cheat to boot.

He only answered, "Do not fret."

That is a "curious" say, "you bet."
